

OUTDOORS: City Chase

Think The Amazing Race meets Fear Factor, but with a Chicago twist. That's what City Chase—an international urban scavenger hunt of sorts—is doing with its U.S. debut this weekend. From eating gross food to selling hugs on the street to completing obstacle courses—and only given a clue sheet and a CTA pass—each team of two is put to the physical and mental test for the challenge, which can last up to five hours. The winning team receives a trip to compete in the City Chase World Championship in Rome.

where: Various locations in Chicago

when: Saturday, August 25

cost: $175 per team

link: Visit citychase.com to register.